Alysha Evans-Singh is a Litigation Paralegal with a focus on medical malpractice. In her role at Bennett Jones she manages files to ensure that they are up-to-date, drafts pleadings and other court documents, gathers and analyzes medical evidence for disclosure, identifies suitable medical and non-medical experts to assist with cases, and handles trial preparation and research. Prior to joining the firm Alysha was a legal assistant at a large financial institution in Edmonton where she supported in-house counsel by drafting contracts and other tasks.

In her spare time Alysha enjoys traveling, spending time with family and friends, and performing (singing) in small local fundraisers.
